Thursday, March 2

6:00-9:00 pm Reception at Birmingham Botanical Gardens

Friday, March 3  Symposium at the Birmingham Radisson Hotel

8:00-8:25 am  Breakfast & Registration
8:25-8:30  Introduction
8:30-9:10  “Tomato Phytochemicals and Risk of Prostate Cancer”
          John Erdman (University of Illinois-Urbana)

9:10-9:35  “Alcohol and Polyphenol Mediated Cardioprotection: NO. News is Good News”
          Dale Parks (University of Alabama at Birmingham)

9:40-10:05  “The lens of the eye - a new target for polyphenol-containing supplements in aging”
            Stephen Barnes (University of Alabama at Birmingham)

10:05-10:20  Coffee Break

10:20-10:50  “Soy food consumption and risk of cardiovascular diseases and bone fracture”
              Xiao-ou Shu (Vanderbilt University)

10:50-11:15  “Isoflavones and Bones”
              Connie Weaver (Purdue University)

11:15-11:40  “Kudzu: Cardiovascular and Cognitive Function”
              J. Michael Wyss (University of Alabama at Birmingham)

11:40-12:10  “Nuclear hormone receptors as targets for natural products”
              David Moore (Baylor College of Medicine)

12:10-3:00  Lunch and poster viewing (awards to be given to top student and postdoctoral fellow posters at 3:00 pm)

3:00-4:00  Tours of UAB facility

For further information contact Rose Johnson (Rose.Johnson@ccc.uab.edu or 205 934-6766)