ASN MEMBER RECEIVES PRESTIGIOUS POSTDOCTORAL AWARD
Recognizing the Outstanding Achievement by an Early Career Stage Life Scientist from an Underrepresented Minority Group

November 5, 2010—The American Society for Nutrition (ASN) congratulates ASN member April Stull, PhD, RD, a Postdoctoral Fellow at Pennington Biomedical Research Center, for receiving the 2010 Postdoctoral Professional Development & Enrichment Award. This award is sponsored by the National Institute of General Medical Sciences, and administered by the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology (FASEB). ASN joined the Federation as a constituent society in 1940; there are currently 23 member societies. A total of six individuals are recognized each year with this award, selected from an extremely accomplished applicant pool of dedicated scientists. ASN and its Minority Affairs Committee (MAC) congratulate Dr. Stull and 2009 awardee Veronica Lopez, from Pennsylvania State University.

“I am delighted and honored to receive this award in recognition of my research productivity,” said Stull. “Funds provided by this award will be used to support my travel to the ASN Scientific Sessions and Annual Meeting at Experimental Biology 2011 in Washington, DC, and continuation of my research on blueberries and their many health benefits.”

Experimental Biology takes place April 9-13, 2011. To register or submit an abstract, please visit http://experimentalbiology.org/.

ASN is the preeminent professional organization for nutrition research scientists and clinicians around the world. ASN is dedicated to bringing together the top nutrition researchers, medical practitioners, policy makers and industry leaders to advance our knowledge and application of nutrition. Founded in 1928, ASN publishes The American Journal of Clinical Nutrition (AJCN), the Journal of Nutrition (JN), and Advances in Nutrition, and provides a wide range of education and professional development opportunities to advance nutrition research, practice, and education. Visit ASN online at www.nutrition.org.

###